

The Depletion Signal

Your body is sending clear signals. A few targeted supports now prevent this from becoming a deeper crash.

YOUR TIPS & TRICKS

- 01 Say it out loud: "I need more help than I'm asking for."
- 02 Add a weighted or pressure-based sleep aid for whatever sleep you get.
- 03 Simplify meals — nutrient-dense and easy beats elaborate.
- 04 Let one thing go this week. Notice how it feels.
- 05 Use scent as a fast nervous-system reset between tasks.
- 06 Book one appointment focused only on you.

YOUR DAILY MANTRAS

- "Needing help does not make me any less capable."*
- "I am allowed to put myself on today's to-do list."*
- "Rest is productive, even when it doesn't feel like it."*
- "I am doing enough, even on the hard days."*
- "This depletion is a signal, not a life sentence."*
- "I deserve the care I give so freely to others."*

IN GOOD COMPANY

Chrissy Teigen has been candid about how depleting early motherhood can be, and how normal it is to feel like you're barely keeping up.
