

The Baseline Navigator

*You're likely in the very early, subtle stages of perimenopause, or your hormones are currently well-balanced.
Now is the perfect time to build your longevity foundation before major shifts begin.*

YOUR TIPS & TRICKS

- 01 Start strength training now — bone density work compounds for decades.
- 02 Build a cooling sleep setup before you need it.
- 03 Get a baseline hormone panel to compare against later.
- 04 Introduce adaptogens or magnesium as a gentle foundation.
- 05 Keep a monthly symptom log — subtle shifts are easiest to catch early.
- 06 Revisit this assessment every few months.

YOUR DAILY MANTRAS

"I am building my foundation before I need it."

"My body is recalibrating, and I'm listening closely."

"Small changes now become big protection later."

"I am proactive about my vitality, not fearful of my age."

"This transition is mine to navigate on my terms."

"I trust the data my body gives me."

IN GOOD COMPANY

Naomi Watts began paying close attention to her own hormonal shifts years before her diagnosis, later writing openly about the value of catching early signals.